

Collect Something!

The possibilities are endless, there are so many things to collect! Items that are cheap and simple to find work best at the beginning. Collecting postcards of places the child or you have been is a wonderful springboard for sharing stories about your experiences. Collecting interesting rocks can also be a way of evoking memories of where a particular rock was found and how. Signature books have long been popular, and favorite teachers and special friends can be "celebrities", too!
